

INTRODUCTION

Remember the last time you were shopping for a new outfit in a department store? Wasn't it challenging finding the right color, size, etc.? But do you also remember the day you ran across a new ensemble that just took you by surprise, leaving you puzzled as you wondered what shoes and accessories would match? This kind of experience instantaneously grabs your attention, especially when you find the right color and size. You pull it off the rack, turn it around, observe the fabric, and admire the style and materials. I'm sure this type of department store experience doesn't happen often.

Would that experience resemble church today? Are you excited about receiving the Word—its delivery, style, and principals? Just as in the department store, after you've become so excited about what you've found, there is always one thing dangling from the sleeve, and that's the price tag! Millions of congregants now believe their assemblies aren't much different. After becoming excited about what they've received, there is now one thing dangling from the mouth of the man or woman of God and that is a seed offering. Are congregants now paying for the Word of God? Are men and women of God now marketing FREE principals from The Bible?

Remember when believers' uplifted hands and/or by touching and agreeing, symbolized the act of receiving from God? Well today, congregants are solicited to SOW into the preached Word, symbolizing the planting of finances in faith and hope of reaping a harvest! To those who believe, Seed Time and Harvest is an embraced Kingdom principal for living, but controversy has arisen as congregants feel as if they're now tipping, giving a gratuity, to declare, "I believe and/or receive."

This book is a must have for every preacher/teacher, tither, congregant, choir member, praise and worship leader, trustee, usher, and all supporters of ministry. It truly outlines, as well as enlightens, the understanding of millions regarding Sanctuary Worship Services, Mega-Churches, Televangelism, Outreach and Missions, and more. A silent cry now escapes the hearts of millions of congregants, even those that serve in ministry, who are feeling prostituted while funding the House and leadership! Congregants are turning away from their assemblies and even God, settling for a Christian lifestyle without a pastor, because a reflection of the latter days of indulgences has ambushed the Church yet again, or rather have become re-modernized!
